

48 HOURS

BECOME THE FOUNDER THEY CALL BACK.

Nobody passes because the deck was ugly.

They pass because the answer to the second question was not ready.

HOUR 1 - 6

YOUR OWN NUMBERS FIRST.

Pulled from what actually happened, not
from a memory of it.

Growth, retention, what a customer costs you and what they are worth.

GROWTH

Monthly

the real curve, not the good months

RETENTION

By cohort

where they leave, and when

COST

To acquire

all in, not just ad spend

VALUE

Per customer

over the life, not the first month

HOUR 7 - 20

THE STORY THOSE NUMBERS TELL.

Not the story you wish they told.

Where you are early, where you are strong, and what the money buys.

WHAT IS WORKING

with the number under
it

WHAT IS NOT YET

said before they find it

WHAT THE ROUND BUYS

one specific thing

HOUR 21 - 36

THE ROOM THEY ASK FOR NEXT.

The one you scramble to build after the first good call.

Financials, cohorts, contracts, cap table. Assembled while the call is still warm.

THE MODEL

Defensible

assumptions you can stand behind

THE COHORTS

Charted

the one they always request

THE PAPER

In order

contracts and cap table

THE ASK

Specific

what the money actually buys

NUMBERS - STORY - ROOM - REPLY

HOUR 37 - 48

THE QUESTION BEFORE THEY ASK IT.

Twenty objections, answered in writing,
before the second call.

The one that kills the round is never the one you rehearsed.

THE PREP

20 OBJECTIONS ANSWERED

REHEARSED: ALL

SURPRISED: NONE

WHAT ACTUALLY CHANGED

YOU STOPPED SOUNDING EARLY.

Same company. Same numbers. A different conversation.

Being prepared reads as being further along, because it usually is.

COMMENT

INVESTORS

and I will send you the 48 hour prep.

The numbers to pull, and the twenty questions.
