ROLE 01

Your researcher, already briefed.

Describe the market in one line. Claude hands back a ranked brief: who to chase, why now, sorted by fit.

The right 50, not a list of 5,000. You start at step two.

+ Find 50 founder-led companies, 2-50 staff, US/UK, ranked by fit

CORTEX returns a ranked brief in one turn

01	Seed-Series A SaaS, US just raised, hiring AEs	96
02	Boutique IT services, UK scaling outbound, no SDRs	92
03	Founder-led software, US new VP Sales, budget set	89

ROLE 02

Your SDR writes the whole sequence.

One brief in, a 4-touch sequence out: cold email, follow-up, value drop, break-up. Drafted before your coffee, held by a human gate until you approve.

SPECTER / sequence		4 TOUCHES · 12 DAYS
DAY 0	Cold email one trigger, one ask, under 60 words
DAY 3	Follow-up adds one proof point, no guilt-trip
DAY 7	Value drop the one resource that fits their trigger
DAY 12	Break-up closes the loop, leaves the door open

Your closer never freezes on the objection.

Qualify to close, one flow. The answer to every objection is drafted before the call, tied to the pipeline it replaces.

✔ STRIKER / objection handling		LIVE
"Too expensive."	→	ties price to the pipeline it replaces , not features
"We use a tool."	→	maps the gap they feel , skips the feature war
"No time."	→	shows the one-weekend path , books the next step

ROLE 04

Your writer ships every channel.

One post in your voice, reshaped per channel and scheduled for its own time zone. Write once, ship everywhere.

ROLE 05

Your ops runs the morning brief.

Before you open the laptop, the brief is already written: what moved, what needs you, what to ignore.

ROLE 06

Your engineer ships the tool. No engineer.

Describe the tool, get a working one back in the chat: a pricing calculator, a tracker, a dashboard. You ship it the same day.

You don't hire the team. You configure it.

Six roles, zero headcount, one operator that runs them while you approve every move. A company of one that ships like ten.
